Ankur Gopal is a Serial Technology Entrepreneur and the CEO of Interapt, an award-winning "innovation as a service" company specializing in mobile app and wearable technology Solutions Company. From startups to Fortune 500 companies, Interapt partners with businesses to teach them how to effectively use innovation to complement their overall business strategy. Interapt works with multiple companies in the healthcare and long term care space, building solutions and products ranging from technical compliance to HIPAA compliant communications.

In 2014, Interapt was selected by Google as one of only 10 global companies for their Glass at Work partner program. In 2015 Interapt won the Gartner Cool Vendor Award, an international award designated by research giant Gartner Group.

Ankur is the recipient of the EY Entrepreneur of the Year 2016 Award. He was selected by the Kentucky Entrepreneur Hall of Fame as their 2014 Emerging Entrepreneur, and was named one of Business First's 40 business leaders under 40. He has also been a speaker at multiple leading conferences, including Salesforce.com's Dreamforce 2015, the world's largest annual software conference in San Francisco. He was also selected in 2016 by the SOAR board, which includes Cong. Hal Rogers, Gov. Matt Bevin, and Mr. Jim Host to lead a 10-20 year plan to teach Kentuckians technology skills and build a sustainable technology ecosystem.

Prior to moving to Louisville, Gopal studied Entrepreneurship at The University of Chicago Booth School of Business. He currently serves on the Greater Louisville, Inc, Enterprise Corp., Health Enterprise Network, Speed Museum, Ky Center for the Arts, and Junior Achievement boards. He is an active entrepreneur mentor, investor, and philanthropist.

In his spare time, Ankur is an avid tennis player, enjoys cooking, and performs improv comedy. He is married to Dr. Kiran Gill, and welcomed their first child, daughter Arya, in 2016.
